The Money Smart Family System: Teaching Financial Independence to Children of Every Age		Steve & Annette Economides	Is it possible to raise financially responsible kids of any age in a society filled with consumerism and entitlement? With clear steps for children of every age, The MoneySmart Family System proves that it's never too early, too late, or too hard to start learning financial responsibility.	2012
How Children Succeed: Grit, Curiosity, and the Hidden Power of Character		Paul Tough	Why do some children succeed while others fail? The story we usually tell about childhood and success is the one about intelligence: success comes to those who score highest on tests, from preschool admissions to SATs. But in How Children Succeed, Paul Tough argues that the qualities that matter more have to do with character: skills like perseverance, curiosity, optimism, and self-control.	2013
Mindset: The New Psychology of Success		Carol Dweck	Dweck explains why it's not just our abilities and talent that bring us success—but whether we approach them with a fixed or growth mindset. She makes clear why praising intelligence and ability doesn't foster self-esteem and lead to accomplishment, but may actually jeopardize success. With the right mindset, we can motivate our kids and help them to raise their grades, as well as reach our own goals—personal and professional.	2007
On Your Own: A College Readiness Guide for Teens with ADHD/LD		Patricia O. Quinn et al	While teens are still in high school, they can prepare for college life by assessing their "living-on-your-own" skills such as problem solving/decision making, communication, self-awareness, and identifying what needs improving. Parents can work with their teen to make a plan to meet these challenges head on and get ready for college.	2011
Smart but Scattered: The Revolutionary "Executive Skills" Approach to Helping Kids Reach Their Potential		Peg Dawson & Richard Guare	There's nothing more frustrating than watching your bright, talented son or daughter struggle with everyday tasks like finishing homework, putting away toys, or following instructions at school. Your "smart but scattered" child might also have trouble coping with disappointment or managing anger. Dr.'s Peg Dawson and Richard Guare have great news: there's a lot you can do to help.	2009
Sparks: How Parents Can Ignite the Hidden Strengths of Teenagers		Peter L. Benson	In this practical book, Dr. Peter Benson describes a simple yet powerful plan for awakening the spark that lives inside each and every young person. Sparks—when illuminated and nurtured—give young people joy, energy, and direction. They have the power to change a young person's life from one of "surviving" to "thriving." Sparks offers a step-by-step approach to helping teenagers discover their unique gifts, and works for all families, no matter their economic status, parenting situation, or ethnic background.	2008

Success Without College: Why Your Child May Not Have to Go to College Right Now--and May Not Have to Go At All

Linda Lee

The Community College Career Track: How to Achieve the American Dream without a Mountain of Debt

Thomas Snyder

Get a good education without massive debt, and enter a field that's actually hiring. In coming years, millions of great jobs will be opening up in growth areas like advanced manufacturing, biotechnology, health care, information technology, and sustainable energy. These jobs can pay as well as, or much better than, the average income for four-year college graduates. They generally offer high levels of day-to-day satisfaction. And the path to all of them begins in the community colleges.

The Path to Purpose: How Young People Find Their Calling in Life

William Damon

Damon shows that the key ingredient for the highly engaged is that they have developed a clear sense of purpose in their lives that motivates them and gives them direction. Based on in-depth interviews, he takes readers inside the minds of the disengaged and drifting kids and exposes their confusion and anxiety about what they should do with their lives. He then offers compelling portraits of the young people who are thriving and identifies the nine key factors that have made the difference for them, presenting simple but powerful methods that parents and all adults can and must employ in order to cultivate that energized sense of purpose in young people that will launch them on the path to a deeply satisfying and productive life.

Your Child's Strengths: Discover Them, Develop Them, Use Them

Jenifer Fox

With this groundbreaking work, renowned educator Jenifer Fox argues against the flawed and maddening paradigm that "fixing" kids' weaknesses is the way to achieve success. Rather, Fox promotes focusing on kids' natural inclinations in three interdependent areas: Activity Strengths, Relationship Strengths, and Learning Strengths. Pairing inspiring firsthand accounts of success with practical workbook tools, alongside an outline of the award-winning strengths-based Affinities curriculum Fox has implemented in her own school, Your Child's Strengths is a user-friendly and indispensable guide for parents, teachers, and administrators alike.

Career Planning

Career Planning for Gifted Students

Michele Henderson

Most of the parents and teachers often assume that career planning for gifted and talented children will take care of itself. But evidence is mounting to show that the path from education to career is not always smooth for them, and it may be further complicated by social-emotional problems that gifted children often face. Thus, there is an urgent need for parents to properly plan career options for their children in advance.

Wishcraft: How to Get What You Really Want

Barbara Sher

Winning to me means getting what you want. Not what your father and mother wanted for you, not what you think you can realistically get in this world, but what you want—your wish, your fantasy, your dream. You're a winner when you have a life you love, so that you wake up every morning excited about the day ahead and delighted to be doing what you're doing, even if you're sometimes a little nervous and scared.
